Automatic Charging Bier (AIM)

In 2006/2007, DFW Europe launched the unique and unrivaled Automatic Charging Bier (AIM). The AIM is the world's first and only solution for the refrigeration of coffins weighing up to 350kg into coffins operating at over 40°C. DFW Europe has developed an Automatic Charging Bier that can be fully integrated into the floor of the crematorium chambers. The AIM will start self-power and remain hidden from view under a floor hatch. This provides a flat working surface area under the hatch and has been located in the crematorium chamber.

Down-to-earth Dutch business grows to become European market player

I'm not really one for looking back, but I'm happy to do so when it gives me an opportunity to talk about DFW Europe. Where are we now and how did we get here? The last five years have been a period of growth. We have grown from a small to a medium-size market player, and it's clear that the company has been doing quite well.

Unique crematory project in Denmark

"At DFW Europe they have proven to be masters in their trade," says Manager Tom Olsen.

In Esbjerg crematorium in Aarhus (Denmark), the first crematory was opened some weeks ago. In the words of Managing Director, the new crematory was developed in collaboration with DFW Europe and is the result of a great marriage between seven crematory owners and the company.

Tom Olsen, project head and manager, who is considered one of the most experienced crematory operators in Europe, is very satisfied with the result. He says: "The only reason why we chose DFW Europe was to get a leading manufacturer of crematoriums. But this is not all. DFW Europe has the largest selection of automatic charging systems in Europe. This is a great advantage for us, as we are looking for something that can be integrated into our existing system."

Kris Coenegrachts of Westflede, Lochristi

"DFW Europe provides us with customized services".

Westflede Crematorium in Lochristi, East Flanders, is busy. Groups of people are being buried in the large, modern crematorium. The view from the main hall is impressive. The crematorium was built in 1967 and is one of the largest in Belgium. The building has a capacity of 500 coffins per year.

Coenegrachts comments: "Westflede was all very modern when it was built 34 years ago, but times have moved on. Everything needed to be brought up to date. DFW Europe made a great impression with their state-of-the-art technology. Ultimately, it is about the look and feel of the place. We are glad to have chosen DFW Europe for our crematorium."
